MAX PLANCK INSTITUTE
FOR THE HISTORY OF SCIENCE

INSTITUTE'S COLLOQUIUM · ACADEMIC YEAR 2020/21

Crisis and Capacity: Perspectives in the Humanities and Social Sciences

Image: Sharon McCutcheon, Pixabay 2020.

What Does Race Have to Do with the History of Science?

OCT. 19, 2020

16:00–17:30

- Tiffany N. Florvil (University of New Mexico)
  "A Feminist Bioethic of Grief"
- Yolonda Wilson (National Humanities Center)
  "Tracing 20th-Century Black Activism in Germany"

The MPIWG is pleased to welcome Yolonda Wilson and Tiffany Florvil to October's Institute's Colloquium. Their 20-minute talks will be followed by discussion, moderated by Lisa Onaga (MPIWG), and an audience Q&A.

Contact and Registration
This event will take place online.
For further information or to request the meeting link (external participants), please contact Lisa Onaga (lonaga@mpiwg-berlin.mpg.de) and/or Stephanie Hood (shood@mpiwg-berlin.mpg.de).

Recording and Data Protection
The lecture will be recorded for public relations purposes. Should you wish not to appear in the recording, please switch off your camera and ask questions via the chat function.