

Contents

List of Figures	vii
Notes on Contributors	ix
Acknowledgements	xiii
Introduction: 'Science, Faith and Reason' versus 'Science and Religion': The Question of Boundaries Jaume Navarro	1
PART I: ON REALITY
1 Ontological Bridges and the Mind of the Universe Rafael A. Martínez	11
2 Reality at Risk Roger Trigg	29
3 Scientific Naturalism and the Need for a Neutral Metaphysical Framework Robert A. Delfino	43
PART II: ON CREATION
4 Creation and Inertia: The Scientific Revolution and Discourse on Science-and-Religion William E. Carroll	63
5 A Victorian Theory of the Multiverse: The Unseen Universe and the Notion of Creation Jaume Navarro	83
PART III: ON LIFE
6 'Is It Tomorrow, or Just The End of Time?': Paradigm Shifts in the Biological Sciences Martinez J. Hewlett	105

7	The Biologist's Need for Philosophy as Seen through a Comparison of Aristotle's Views on Living Things with Those of Modern Biologists Marie I. George	125
8	Stratified Cosmic Order: Distinguishing Parts, Wholes, and Levels of Organization Jitse M. van der Meer	145
PART IV: ON DESIGN
9	Evolutionism vs. Intelligent Design: Aporia and Method Santiago Collado	167
10	Intelligent Design Theory and 'Imago Dei': From Theodicy to a 'Creationist Left' Steve Fuller	187
	Epilogue: When Science Becomes Religion Karl Giberson	205
	Appendix: Bibliography of Mariano Artigas	221
	Index	225